In An Unlikely Alliance, Magda Bowman, an out of work seamstress, fills in as a gypsy fortune teller at a ton party. Alexander Maxwell, the Earl of Kerrigan, observes Magda stacking the deck to provide guests what they desired to hear. Disgusted with her cheating, he walks away. After that, someone asks her if Kerrigan's horse will win in a race.

This book by a leading authority on Anglo-Japanese relations reconsiders the circumstances which led to the unlikely alliance of 1902 to 1922 between Britain, the leading world power of the day and Japan, an Asian, non-European nation which had only recently emerged from self-imposed isolation. Based on extensive original research the book goes beyond existing accounts which concentrate on ...
