Architecture And Philosophy New Perspectives On The Work ...

One reason that architectural ethics is central to philosophy of architecture is that architects' actions bear great influence over other people's moral lives. Architects design structures and environments for people, with concomitant effects on personal behavior, capacity to choose courses of action, and ability to satisfy preferences, visit harm, generate benefit, or exercise rights.

The key to good design is to subtract, not add. This has been the philosophy of everyone from Jonathan Ive and Stefan Sagmeister to Diego Armani and Ludwig Mies van der Rohe. The more 'essential' you can make a product — that is, the less designed you can make it appear — the more you've succeeded.

Early history. Plato, whose influence on architecture is widely documented (e.g., 'idealism', 'neo-Platonic' architecture), may be counted as part of a classical geometric model of cosmology, the popularity of which could be attributed to earlier thinkers such as Pythagoras. In early history, philosophers distinguished architecture ('technion') from building ('demiorgos'), attributing the former to mental traits, and the latter to the divine or natural.

Philosophy of architecture - Wikipedia

Hegel's ideas about the nature of religion, its history, and its relation to philosophy have had great influence on his friends and foes alike. Relying on the new critical edition of Hegel's separate lecture courses, the essays in this book provide new insights into Hegel's ideas and challenge the way we think today. Crucial topics are discussed.
